MONDAY MORNING, ... MARCH 5, 1855.

THE NEWS.

The President has vetoed the Contract Mail Steamer Bill, and the Senate has failed to pass it over the veto, by a majority of nothing but the name relative to the Collins line, and their contract.

The Republicans of Massachusetts have passed the anti-nativity resolutions for burying the dead act of the St. Clair Flats and St. Mary's River, all the same.

The Democratic Senate Caucus this morning is roundly anti-nativity. It is mostly devoted to a description of the closing scenes of the present session of Congress. Such scenes were not to continue the last edition. The session terminated at 12 o'clock precisely. Vice President Breckinridge announced the adjournment on last night at 12 o'clock, and a few minutes after the Senate was organized in a great way, adjourned sine die. The House was then called to order by the Speaker, and it, too, was soon declared adjourned.

Gov. Seymour, of Connecticut, during his term of office, has pardoned 17 persons, and refused pardon to 17. He has also commuted the sentence of one convict.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Indiana, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Joseph A. Wright for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Illinois, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Gen. James Shields for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Iowa, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Augustus Hall for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Wisconsin, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Charles Durkee for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Michigan, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Lewis Cass for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated James Buchanan for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Ohio, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated George E. Pugh for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Kentucky, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated John C. Breckinridge for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Missouri, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Thomas H. Benton for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Tennessee, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Andrew Johnson for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Mississippi, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Jefferson Davis for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Alabama, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Clement C. Clay for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Georgia, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Robert Toombs for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Louisiana, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Judah P. Benjamin for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Arkansas, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Robert W. Johnson for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Texas, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Thomas J. Rusk for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of California, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated John B. Weller for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Oregon, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Joseph Lane for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Minnesota, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Henry M. Rice for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of New Jersey, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated William L. Dayton for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Delaware, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Willard Hall for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Maryland, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Thomas G. Pratt for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Virginia, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated James M. Mason for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of North Carolina, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Thomas L. Clingman for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of South Carolina, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Andrew P. Butler for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Florida, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Stephen R. Mallory for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Maine, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Hannibal Hamlin for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of New Hampshire, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated John P. Hale for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Vermont, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Solomon Foot for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Massachusetts, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Henry Wilson for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Rhode Island, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated James F. Simmons for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of Connecticut, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Gideon Welles for re-election to the United States Senate.

The Democratic Caucus of the Legislature of New York, on last night at 12 o'clock, and 5 minutes, nominated Daniel S. Dickinson

BAYARD TAYLOR'S Lecture on the Philosophy of Travel.

DELIVERED AT METROPOLITAN HALL
Before the Young Men's Association,
On Friday Evening, March 2, 1855.

One of the sentient philosophers said Mr. Taylor, describes man as an animal that laughs. It would be more appropriate to say that man is an animal that travels; he is in fact, the only animal that has adopted this way of life from choice. The desire to travel seems to be innate in the human mind. The same longing to see foreign countries and strange lands that Ulysses experienced in his Ithacan voyagers, seems to exist in equal force in the minds of the young generation of the present day. The boy that reads the story of Sinbad the Sailor, and the Voyages of Captain Cook, finds the balance down to prentice to the remote regions that are there described, to pluck oranges from their native groves, and to see with his own eyes the dusky faces of strange and valorous tribes.

If it be said in opposition to the idea of the expediency of travel, that a rolling stone gathers no moss; I may be retorted in the same homely language, that a resting log never gets fat; and that if the stone gathers no moss, the constant attrition of travel wears away its rough asperities, and makes it at least more comely and attractive than before. Travel indeed is the world's great college. In ancient times, before the general diffusion of letters, when books were scarce and only to be procured by the wealthy, travel was resorted to by all classes of learning for their stock of knowledge and of benefiting others. Thus Homer, Lycurgus, Strabo, Pindar, Herodotus, and many others that might be mentioned, obtained the means of delighting and instructing mankind.

He is an incontrovertible fact that no nation the inhabitants of which have totally neglected travel, has ever been at any great advance in refinement and civilization ——and the converse of the proposition is equally true. The Sandwich and the Norwegians, the descendants of the ancient Scandinavians, are instances in point. Cook, in some length, in illustration. And such instances are invariably found to be citizens of the great powers of the world.

But there is a species of the peculiar kinds of knowledge derived from travel; particularly with reference to foreign languages the manners and customs of distant nations, &c. Also of the idea of desire for the acquisition of this knowledge.

The idea that the desire to travel indicates an unstable mind was then noticed and controverted, and the speaker stated that it was to travel, that he attributed so much of the knowledge that he possessed.

The credibility of some of the old travelers afforded the lecturer an opportunity of indulging in some remarks of my humor, which he did not neglect. Yet before he makes them for their credibility we should remember the credibility that pertains in regard to many subjects in this enlightened age; even among us. Thus in the interior of the country, and in India, even, every boy knows that the moon is composed of green cheese, and that the sun is a ball of fire. Even in the most enlightened countries, the most ridiculous ideas are entertained. Upon questioning them they say they can't here these phrases, that they do not know how long they will say, but that they are said and used by somebody.

Millions and his party have become convinced that there is no hope of their carrying the day to-morrow by fair and honest means, and they have resorted to the employment of every influence to take possession of the polls and have us legal voters. We hope they will have a good time in accomplishing their ends.

FOLLOW BUSINESS.

The following is the record of the business in the Mayor's Police Office since February 27th. What it is remembered that for the last week there has been more than the ordinary amount of Drunkenness, Rioting, Fighting and disorder of every kind carried forward, it will be seen that the Mayor is extremely careful of offending his friends, the rumsellers, at the approach of election day. The words "drunk" occurs very frequently in the annexed report.

Meeting Extraordinary.

The meeting which was called by the citizens for Saturday evening at the Common Council Chamber, for the purpose of considering the subject of forming a joint stock company to erect a building for the Merchants, Board of Trade, and Young Men's Association, was not held. A sufficient number did not appear to form a quorum, and the public mind being so much engaged at this time on the subject of the pending elections, it was deemed a failure of full meeting. Many persons met at the Board Room, and Mr. Carter Harrison was called to the chair; and on motion the meeting for the above mentioned object was adjourned until a week from to-day, (March 12th inst.) the place for holding such meeting to be made known through the papers previous to that time.

CHRISTMAS WARNING OUT OF THIS HOUSE.

The city was never so full of Irishmen as it is at this moment. The streets, alleys and by-ways literally swarm with them. The great lodge are crowded with them; and Major Holden, and Pat Ballingall are hard and sore with them. They are noisy, impudent, impudent fellows. They have plenty of bad whiskey. They have plenty of bad tobacco. They talk about the Bloody Know Nothings. They have been informed that there is work for them to do next Tuesday, and they are now ... to remember it.

There is no doubt but that a great proportion of these wild Dagons have been imported into the city for the purpose of carrying the election to-morrow for Milliken, Brown, and Mr. Carter and Pritchett. Upon questioning them they say they came here these days, that they do not know how long they will stay, but that they will paid for nothing.

Millions and his party have become convinced that there is no hope of their carrying the day to-morrow by fair and honest means, and they have resorted to the employment of every influence to take possession of the polls and have us legal voters. We hope they will have a good time in accomplishing their ends.

CHICAGO MARKET.
Monday Morning, March 5.
Sunday the weather was warm and pleasant, and the roads in a most horrible condition. The heaviest rain we have had this season commenced on Saturday night, and continued with but little intermission until Sunday evening. The effect upon the roads can be better imagined than described. Many teams are stuck in the mud all over the city, and the streets are almost impassable. Business was entirely suspended on Sunday, and to-day will be a busy one to get matters straightened. Country produce is coming in freely, and prices are unchanged. Receipts of flour and grain are very large, and the market is overstocked. It is to be hoped that no more will be sent forward for some days, as the market is already glutted. Provisions are in good demand, and prices are rather inactive.—POTATOES are dull at 35@40c per bu in market.—Green Round Hickory cuttings in demand and scarce. It is to be hoped that no more of this class
